THE MONTREAL MEETING

The sixty-second annual meeting of the Conference in Montreal in June will have many of the characteristics of an international conference. The many attractions of Montreal of special significance to social workers are described elsewhere in this Bulletin. This is the first time the Conference has met in Montreal.

This meeting will also mark the first year of the new program organization. The Program Committee of the Conference has met frequently during the year. Old members of the Conference will miss the set-up of the twelve divisions, and may feel that this is some loss. However, the change was made in response to universal demand from the Conference membership for simplification of the program. A glance at the preliminary program published in this issue of the Bulletin will show that it still covers a wide range of social work interests. In response to the times, it gives special emphasis to fundamental social and economic factors affecting social work or that may be affected by social work. Because of the present situation in both Canada and the United States, there is inevitably emphasis on public social work and many of the problems involved therein.

At a time when there are so many divergent points of view regarding what can or ought to be done to meet the existing situation it is only right that these various points of view be represented so far as possible in the Conference program. The Conference from its very beginning has retained its character as an open forum for the presentation of a wide variety of ideas, experience, and points of view that affect social work. This difference of viewpoint will make the meetings at Montreal of unusual interest and stimulate the thinking of social workers and people interested in social work.

Perhaps the greatest value that will come from the meeting in Montreal will be the opportunity for social workers and socially minded citizens of two great countries to meet together for a week, share experiences, exchange ideas, and go home with the best information for use in their own local community. It will be one more evidence of that feeling of good will and mutual appreciation which enables two great countries to live as neighbors.

NEW PUBLICITY DIRECTOR

Mr. Harold P. Levy joined the staff on April 1 as Publicity Director for the National Conference of Social Work. Mr. Levy is a graduate of the University of Washington and has had fine experience in newspaper work, radio, and other forms of publicity. He has had close connections with social work both in the far west and in New York prior to coming to the Conference. Mr. Levy's first task will be the organization of the press service for the Montreal meeting. Following the Montreal meeting plans will be developed for a year-round social work interpretation program. Mr. Levy will also give some time to promotion of Conference membership.

The City Where We Meet

Montreal, whether viewed in the daytime from its bustling harbour where the sunlight flashes back and forth from the water to the window panes, or seen at night from its hushed mountain where the great cross answers to the stars, is a city unique, with a rare flavour all its own. Where else on this continent can one pass within a few blocks from provincial France into the realm of the ticker-tape, from the weathered stones of two hundred and fifty years ago to modern marble halls echoing the high heels of little French typists.

The City's beginnings were laid in the culmination of a high adventure when in 1536 Jacques Cartier sailed round bend after bend of the incredible river, braving the unknown, until he reached the mountain, "on an island in the stream." He landed at the Indian town of Hochelaga, nestling between the height and the water. In 1611, Champlain, coming after him, named the height Mont Royal — "Regal Mountain" — and claimed the land for the French king. Both Cartier and Champlain, however, returned to France without establishing any permanent settlement. In 1642 Abbe Olier, who founded the Order of St. Sulpice in France, sent Paul Chomedey de Maisonneuve with a devoted little band of religious enthusiasts to found the village of Mont Royal as a base from which to work in converting the Indians to the Christian faith. Through peace and the terrors and tortures of Indian war the tiny settlement survived. In 1672 were laid out and named the first streets, which afterwards developed into the City of Montreal.

While France and England struggled with each other through the trying Seven Years' War, General Amherst in 1760 captured Mont Royal for the English and the Treaty of Paris, which closed the war in 1763, placed the "few acres of snow," as Voltaire described the young French colony of Canada, definitely under the British flag. But this was not the end of war for Montreal. During the American War of Independence, General Montgomery, a revolutionary officer, occupied the town for a few months in 1775. It was retaken by the British in the following year but visiting Americans often view with interest the houses in which Montgomery and Arnold resided.

This romantic, cosmopolitan, new-old city of Montreal has many claims to fame and not the least of these is its Port. The shipping of the Great Lakes and the Atlantic and the railway traffic of half a continent converge upon Montreal. It is the second largest port in America, yielding place only to New York, and the largest inland port in the world. Here, a thousand miles from the ocean, is berth accommodations for approximately one hundred ocean liners at one time and the tarry smell of the sea is found in the very heart of Canada. Montreal, with its fringe of towering elevators at the harbour front, probably handles more grain than any other port in the world. It has a grain conveyor system by which twenty-three vessels can be loaded simultaneously. It is also equipped with one of the largest cold storage plants in the world. There are twenty-eight permanent fireproof transit sheds along approximately nine miles of deep-draught wharf.

Behind the grain elevators, Bonsecour Market provides the setting on market days for rare little dramas of French Canadian provincial life. Thither flock "les habitants" with their little carts and their homespun clothing. Above the piles of native tobacco, the maple sugar, blood pudding, home-made furniture, garlic and rosaries, rises the clatter of French tongues in animated bargaining. Historic Chateau de Ramezay, built in 1704 by a Governor of Montreal and now a museum, overlooks this market.

Not far away rise the twin towers of Notre Dame Church, a hundred years old, from which booms out, to re-echo among the banks and office buildings which now surround it, the twelve ton bell which the French call "Le Gros Gourdon."

Around the corner is St. James Street, the Wall Street of Canada. From the steps of the Royal Bank Building on a week-day morning one may see the world go by.

Above "the business district" Beaver Hall Hill, cobbled like the wartime village streets of France, leads steeply to the shopping district. Here British woollens, Irish linens and Canadian furs are shown side by side with rugs and homespuns handmade in the shiny kitchens of thrifty French-Canadian farmers.

Behind the shops and nearer the foot of the Mountain, Montreal's famous Public Library, the largest dual language (French and English) library in the world, stands on Sherbrooke Street. Near it "La Fontaine" in the Park of the Fountain presents at night what might be a little corner of the Gardens of Versailles. Through a district of not-so-old residences, yielding now to paying guests and shops, Sherbrooke crosses all those delightful other streets to which the tramways give double names (De la Montagne—Mountain; "Ghee"—Guy; etc.) to Westmount Park, a leafy retreat of wandering paths, hidden water-courses and lawns under old trees that might be a corner of an English estate.

From here it is possible to venture through "The Glen" into a district almost undiscovered by artists. Yet a painter might travel a thousands miles twice over and never set up his easel in a richer spot. Outside stairways, so typical of certain sections of Montreal, rise in dingy rhythm from the narrow streets and every passing cloud deepens the purples and greys of century-weathered stones assembled in unduplicated variety of quaint architecture.

From Sherbrooke Street in another direction the steep road called the Cote des Neiges (Hill of Snows) leads between the Mountain proper and the "upper level" residential district of Westmount to St. Joseph's Oratory. This famous shrine is a monument to Brother Andre who in 1904 built the tiny chapel nearby where his miraculous cures brought relief to thousands of unhappy sufferers.

On the right may be seen the towering new buildings of the University of Montreal.

Automobiles are not allowed on the Mountain. In the very centre of the humming city this one high spot is hushed and serene. Crickets may be heard, and the summer warbler, and the clop-clop of an occasional old cab-horse. The equipage may be glimpsed through the trees, a grey-haired "cabbie" on his high seat, his whip erect beside him, and behind him the low-hung, roomy old carriage. Only thus, encompassed by the luxury and leisure of another day, may one drive upon the Regal Mountain.

From a look-out near the summit one may view a wide expanse of surrounding country, that land of mountain, lake and stream where trout hide in blue lakes* and a piney fragrance pervades half-a-hundred excellent golf courses. The dome rising in the centre of the City is St. James Cathedral, an exact although reduced copy of St. Peter's in Rome. Almost at one's feet stately college buildings surround the McGill Campus. This university, well over a hundred years old, is one of the foremost seats of learning in North America. It is especially famous for its medical course and it houses the Montreal School of Social Work.

This school, one of the three in Canada, offers to university graduates of suitable personality, a two-year course of preparation for professional social work, the course consisting partly of lectures and partly of supervised field work. Extension work has been very successful. The School co-operates with the social welfare organizations in the City, partly through supplying them with trained personnel and partly through assistance given in their educational program.

Social work in Montreal is divided among four major federations: Federated Charities, the English Protestant service; Federation of Catholic Charities, also English; Federation of Jewish Philanthropies; and Federation des Oeuvres de Charite Canadiennes-Francaises, the French Catholic service. Each service has its own special divisions for child care, dependent persons, the unemployed, delinquency, recreational activities, parks and playgrounds, settlements, child and family welfare and public health.

Montreal is proud to be host to the 1935 National Conference of Social Work. Local workers are looking forward to helpful discussion of their problems and the valuable broadening which accompanies a wide exchange of ideas. There will be time for recreation and relaxation too.

After the Conference is over delegates may wish to explore beyond the city. Historic Quebec may be reached by steamer or by rail or by a pleasant afternoon's motor trip along the shore of the St. Lawrence River. This city is a treasure-house for historians, artists and collectors of antiques. And here an engineer may appreciate one of the minor wonders of the world, the Quebec Bridge. Two attempts to span the river ended in tragedy and loss of life. The water claimed and still holds two half-finished middle spans. The third and successful attempt was a breath-taking incident in the saga of man's conquest of nature.

Ottawa, the capital city of Canada, is also within a few hours' motoring distance of Montreal. The Parliament Buildings are located here on a high bluff overlooking the Ottawa River. The Peace Tower with its famous carillon contains one little room that few can visit without emotion. Every carved stone that lines this small retreat has a separate significance. Gifts of marble came from all over the world and artists produced their finest work to make here an exquisite setting for the one thing the room contains, the book wherein are inscribed the names of Canadians who fell in the Great War.

The Ottawa and St. Lawrence Rivers are dotted throughout their length with summer resorts of every type. One may live in anything from a tent to a storied manor house or a palatial hotel and every variety of Canadian outdoor and social life awaits the visitor.

In extending a welcome to the Conference delegates, Montreal only hopes that they may be as happy in receiving as the City is in extending its old-world new-world hospitality.

Staff members will be in attendance at definite hours of each day and available for personal conference. It

REDUCED RAILWAY FARES

Railroad identification certificates entitling members of the Conference and dependent members of their families to purchase round trip tickets to Montreal at the rate of one and a third fares have been sent to all Conference members entitled to them. Full instructions as to selling and return dates, stop over privileges, diverse routings home, etc., are issued with each certificate. There is a thirty-day return privilege on these round trip tickets.

The Conference is permitted to issue these certificates only to bona fide members of the Conference. Member agencies have received a supply for members of their staff and board. It is important if you are planning to use the railroad and expect the reduced fare to secure your certificates in advance of the Conference. The regulations of the Canadian Passenger Association will not permit our issuing certificates at Montreal to persons who have paid the full fare one way and wish the reduced fare home.

Persons who are not now entitled to the reduced fare privilege should send in their memberships at once. A railroad certificate will be mailed immediately upon receipt of the membership fee.

CONFERENCE ELECTION

The official ballot for the election of officers and members of the Executive Committee of the Conference and for Chairmen and Committees of the Sections of the Conference was mailed on April 1 to all members of the Conference who were at that time entitled to vote or who may become entitled to vote by the payment of their annual membership fee prior to the close of the elections at Montreal. The ballot should be sent to the Conference office prior to the annual meeting according to the instructions sent with the ballot or deposited at the voting booth at Conference Headquarters in Montreal at the usual time for voting. The polls will close on Thursday, June 13, at 5:00 P. M. when the ballots will be turned over to the Committee on Tellers.

If you have not yet mailed your ballot to the Conference office, or intend to deposit it yourself at Montreal, please be sure to read all instructions regarding the marking of the ballots and to follow them carefully. Last year a considerable number of ballots were invalidated because of incorrect marking.

INVITATIONS FOR 1937

Cities planning to invite the Conference for 1937 may secure detailed information regarding the requirements of the Conference from the Conference office. The Committee on Time and Place, Albert H. Jewell, 1020 McGee Street, Kansas City, Missouri, Chairman, will hold its first meeting on Monday, June 10, 3:00 P. M. in Montreal at the Mt. Royal Hotel, Salon A. At this time, all invitations will be heard and each local committee will be given an opportunity to present its claims. All invitations must be accompanied by the information and guarantee blank properly filled in and signed. Copies of this blank may be secured from the Conference office. The Chairman of the Committee, Mr. Jewell, would appreciate being advised as soon as possible of invitations that are to be presented in Montreal.

CROSSING THE BORDER

(Your membership card will help identify you).

"This Department of the Canadian Government is charged with the duties connected with the admittance of tourists and others into the Dominion. The regulations are very simple and reasonable. May I make it quite clear that only the duty of guarding against the admittance, in the guise of tourists, of persons who are not legally admissible necessitates any regulations at all, as it is the policy to make the movement of bona fide tourists crossing the border into Canada just as free of "red tape" and restriction as possible.

"Persons who are citizens of the United States and who are entering Canada as tourists may expect no inconvenience whatever. In case any of your delegates or their friends are not citizens of the United States it would be well for them to be in a position to satisfy the Canadian officer at the international boundary that they are legally resident in the United States and will have no difficulty in returning to your country. Tourists' automobiles are admitted without charge and may be driven for pleasure under their State licenses in Canada for a period of sixty days, which period may be extended upon application."

T. MAGLADERY,

Deputy Minister.

Immigration and Colonization Canada.

VACATION PLANS AND AUTO ROUTES

Mr. George Grafftey, the Montreal Tourist Bureau, New Birks Building, Montreal, Canada, will be glad to advise any Conference delegate as to vacation opportunities in Canada or the Provinces following the National Conference. He also can advise of various automobile routes from the United States to Montreal.

A MOTOR HOLIDAY

Montreal, P. Q., Canada, to Vancouver, B. C., via New York City; Washington D. C.; Dallas, Texas; The Grand Canyon, Arizona and the Pacific Highway through California, Oregon and Washington.

Mr. J. Howard T. Falk, Executive Director of the Vancouver Welfare Federation plans to return from the National Conference at Montreal by the above route, and wishes to find from one to three travelling companions.

The cost, exclusive of beds and meals estimated from previous experience of transcontinental tours at $3.50 per day, would be $45 for one, $80 for two and $105 for three persons.

The schedule planned will allow short stop overs at points of interest en route, reaching Vancouver, B. C. July 4. One or all of the party could leave the party at any point on the Pacific Coast.

For further particulars write to Mr. Falk at 1335 Nanton Avenue, Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada.

CONFERENCE HEADQUARTERS

Headquarters for the National Conference of Social Work will be maintained on the third floor of the Sun Life Assurance Company Building. The building is one of the outstanding buildings in Montreal directly across the square from the Windsor Hotel and only a square and a half from the Mount Royal Hotel. This central location is admirably suited for headquarters purposes. The entire third floor will be used. It affords more than the usual amount of space for the usual headquarters services.

At Headquarters will be found the registration service, information service, the ticket sale for luncheon and dinner tickets, consultation service, press service, and the executive offices. There will also be ample lounging space, so that those who wish to may meet their friends here or hold informal conferences. One feature of the headquarters this year will be a consolidated publication and periodical booth with space available for "browsing."

The General Sessions of the Conference will be held in the Forum about fifteen minutes walk from Headquarters and the hotels. The Sections and the Associate Group meetings will be held in the leading hotels, churches, auditoriums, and other halls centrally located.

The final program, received when registering at Conference Headquarters, will give all details as to meeting places, hours, directions, etc. All persons attending the Conference should come to Headquarters in the Sun Life Building immediately after arrival in Montreal, register at the Conference and secure this final program. It is a handbook for the Conference and may be secured only upon registering.

CONFERENCE REGISTRATION

Everybody participating in the Conference or attending the meetings is expected to register at Conference Headquarters. Upon registering each person receives the official program, the Conference badge, invitation to the President's Reception, and other needed material. The registrant's receipt gives a preference if it is necessary to limit attendance at General Sessions and other Conference functions.

It is also desirable to register so that friends can easily locate you or you can receive telegrams or special delivery letters addressed to you in care of the Conference. This should be attended to the first thing after arrival in Montreal. Registration service is at Conference headquarters in the Sun Life Building.

Persons who are already members of the Conference or who have with them the registration certificate as an official representative of an institutional or agency member of the Conference pay no additional fee. Attendance at the annual meeting is one of the privileges of membership. It is highly desirable to bring your membership card with you as it saves time when you are registering. If your membership card has been lost or left at home, a temporary membership card can be secured from the Membership Secretary at the Conference Headquarters prior to registering. She will be located at one end of the registration booth. If there is any question as to the status of membership, the Membership Secretary can also settle such questions quickly.

Registration certificates were mailed on April 1 to all member agencies of the Conference who were entitled to them, or would become entitled to them by the payment of the usual membership fee. Agencies paying an institutional membership of $25.00 per year may register ten members of their board, staff, or official committees as their official representatives. Agencies maintaining a sustaining membership of $10.00 each year may register four such official delegates.

Persons coming to the Conference who are not yet members are expected to become members when registering. The membership fee for individuals is $5.00 including the bound volume of the Proceedings, which is published following the Conference, or if one does not wish the bound volume of the Proceedings, $3.00. The former registration fee of $2.00 for non-members of the Conference has been abolished. There is a membership application blank on page 25 of this Bulletin, in case you wish to send your membership to the Conference office in advance of arrival at Montreal, which is a good thing to do. Why not attend to it now?

HOTEL RESERVATIONS

There are ample hotel accommodations in Montreal. However, the choice rooms at minimum rate are going fast. If you wish to secure your first choice of rooms, it is advisable to get your reservation in at once. Consult the list of hotels on page 27 of this Bulletin and send in your reservation on the blank provided there. Requests for reservations sent directly to Mr. George Grafftey, Chairman of the Committee on Hotels and Housing, Montreal Tourist and Convention Bureau, New Birks Building, Montreal, Canada, will receive prompt attention.

Every effort will be made to secure the accommodations you request. The list of hotels given on page 27 is recommended for you. It offers a range of prices from the inexpensive to the more expensive accommodations. There are, as we go to press, more than a thousand advance hotel reservations in Montreal. If you have not secured yours you had better do so today.

LUNCHEON AND DINNER TICKETS

The ticket office for the advance sale of tickets for luncheons and dinners will be maintained at Conference Headquarters in the Sun Life Building. It is necessary that persons wishing to attend luncheons and dinners secure their tickets shortly after arrival at Montreal. In many cases accommodations are limited.

The hotels where luncheons and dinners are scheduled can make their arrangements only on a basis of tickets sold in advance. If it should be necessary, because of demand, to limit the sale of tickets for the Conference luncheon, preference will be given to persons registered at Conference Headquarters.

Conference Membership

All persons interested in problems of human welfare are cordially welcomed into the membership of the Conference. The Conference membership is the sole financial support of the Conference and makes possible the annual meeting as well as the other services of the Conference to social work. Membership is in various classes as follows:

Active membership—$5.00. This includes the Quarterly Bulletin, the bound volume of the Proceedings of the annual meeting, which ordinarily retails at $3.00 per volume, reduced railway fare privilege, and all the privileges of the Conference. If the member does not wish the bound volume of the Proceedings, the membership fee is $3.00.

Sustaining membership—$10.00. This class of membership is for individuals who wish to share more generously in the support of the Conference or for organizations with a small budget which wish to be members of the Conference but can not maintain the regular institutional membership. The membership privileges are the same as for individuals and in addition the privileges of reduced railway fare certificates for members of their staff or board and the registering without the payment of the membership fee of up to four members of their staff or board.

Institutional membership—$25.00. This is the regular class for social work or other organizations or agencies. It provides all of the privileges of active membership and, in addition, an ample supply of reduced railway fare certificates for members of their staff or board and the privilege of free registration of up to ten members of their staff or board.

The annual meeting is a logical occasion to renew membership in the Conference, if it has lapsed, or to become a member of the Conference, if one has never been a member before. Membership fees may be sent to the Conference office any time in advance of the annual meeting or at other times during the year. All Conference members receive the reduced railway fare certificate, preliminary program, and other material directly from the Conference office in ample time ahead of the annual meeting. If you are not now a member, send your membership check to the office at once, using the membership application blank below.
